One of the many engineering feats of the house, the stairs of the main staircase spiral up without the help of a center column for support.

OPPOSITE PAGE:
